

Comparing neighborhoods of Toronto and New York

1.Intoduction

New York City and the city of Toronto are very diverse and are the financial capitals of their respective countries, both cities are multi-cultural cities .The objective of this project is to compare both cities to find how similar or dissimilar they are and provide insights for a person who is looking forward to move to either of these cities

2. Data

Data that might contribute to compare different attributes of the cities, data like population density, average income and data which provide information on infrastructure and facilities like hospitals, schools, parks, etc. Here we can use Foursquare API and other data which are available online on different websites